Do you manage a Ward or a Unit?
Are you planning to be a Nurse Leader?
Do you want to be a Competent Nurse Leader who engages and empowers team to be their best?
Do you feel unsure how to achieve excellence in nursing care with resource constraints?
Do you want to transform your professional experience into a certified qualification?
Nurse leaders are lead professionals at the frontline. They have the potential to help realize the vision of a transformed healthcare system of our country. Therefore, the need to harness the confidence of Frontline Nurse Leaders in managing human resources, using technology, managing conflict, improving communication skills and using emotional intelligence effectively is imperative. However, the development of nurses in this vital role has been neglected. Many nurses have transitioned to a Ward Sister or being ‘In-charge of a ward’ through a process of trial and error.

CMAI’s Nurses League, has identified this need gap and designed this course titled – Frontline Nurse Leaders Training, especially for those nurses who have made a transition and those who are waiting or expecting a transition. But their competencies require to be fulfilled so that this new role can create a healthy work environment. Additionally, teach them the necessary skills which cannot be taught in a classroom in generic nursing program or the ward experience alone. Studies area proof that effective leadership is highly directly relates to retention and satisfaction of staff.
